

Building Your Success

A significant part of our participants' success is a result of the unique methodology of the Passing the CFA® course. Each course in the CFA® program is built on four pillars:

1

An Early Start

Most CFA® preparation courses begin in January, about five months before the CFA® Examination. Our courses start in late October, providing an extra 10 weeks for preparation and practice.

2

Instructor Accessibility

Michael is available seven days a week via email and telephone and has regularly scheduled office hours—three hours per week every Saturday afternoon for the duration of the course.

3

Augmented Source Material

Our notes and audio lessons are derived from the CFA® prepared materials and augmented by Michael based on his expertise and experience.

4

Constant Testing

Each class begins with a quiz on the previous week's material. Throughout each course there are three tests, a half-exam, and, at the end of the course, a six-hour mock exam. This allows participants to measure their ranking relative to their peers.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO
SCHOOL OF CONTINUING STUDIES

Passing the CFA® Preparation

Since 2005, the University of Toronto School of Continuing Studies has partnered with award-winning instructor and CBC business commentator Michael Hlinka to offer the CFA® preparation courses, designed to prepare participants for the CFA® Level I, II, and III Examinations.

In addition to preparation for the traditional June exam sittings, we have a course for the Level I December exam. Over the past ten years, we've helped more than 1900 professionals prepare for the CFA® exams.

Success Rates

Our participants have been extremely successful. Our pass rates regularly fall within the low to high 80% range. We are proud of our students' performance and post the pass rates on the SCS website at learn.utoronto.ca.

“Michael Hlinka’s excellent ‘Passing the CFA®’ series of courses hits all the key factors required to succeed on the CFA® exam including an early start in October, use of the original CFA® textbooks, keeping to a disciplined study program through weekly classes and tests, and exceptional teaching.”

Dear CFA® Candidate,

We have committed to ensuring that this is the best CFA® preparation course in the market. However, your success is also a direct function of your personal commitment and the level of time and effort you devote to your studies. Once classes begin, history has shown that a time commitment of between 15 and 20 hours per week, each and every week, is required until the CFA® Examination. There are no shortcuts to success.

If you have additional questions, please contact me by calling Nattaya Chaimahawong at the School of Continuing Studies at 416.978.7208 or email info.cfa@utoronto.ca. Our staff will ensure we connect sooner rather than later. Good luck with your decision!
